REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board of Hollis,

GREETING:

Herewith I submit my tenth annual report as superintendent of your schools, and with it I am presenting reports from your headmaster, your supervisor of music, and your school nurse.

MEMBERSHIP.

The membership of your schools on January 1, 1929, was as follows: High school 51, junior high 34, grades VI and V 20, IV and II 32, II and I 27, Pine Hill 21; total 185. This is three and a fraction less than your average attendance for last year, but it is 22 more than the average for the past decade. Hollis is not losing, at least, in its school population.

AGRICULTURE.

Previous to this year the Hollis High School has offered to its pupils the choice between two courses, one including the study of Latin and the second substituting other academic subjects in the place of the dead language, but both courses strictly academic and cultural. In order to make it possible for some pupils, to whom these courses did not make a strong appeal, to pursue studies of the so-called practical value in them, you decided to offer at least one subject which would have a direct bearing on the agricultural industries of the community. This was found to be impractical unless there was offered a full course in agriculture which would qualify for federal aid. Such a course is now open for the boys in all four of the secondary grades. A large per cent of the boys in the school may be found in these classes today.

Courses in agriculture in high schools in this State date back to September, 1909. In that year such studies were introduced into two high schools in this state, one at Colebrook and the other at Walpole, where I had the honor of being superintendent of schools at that time. In these two schools these courses have been continuous and popular up to the present day. Since 1909 courses in agriculture have been tried in the high schools in a large number of our towns. In quite a few instances the teaching has been dropped after a short trial, while in quite a few others the course remains as the backbone of the institutions. At the present time there are 14 agricultural high schools in this state. From my experience with and observation of this movement for agricultural courses in secondary schools in this State, I should say that the life and popularity of the teaching has depended very largely on four factors: first, the quality of the instruction; second, the extent to which the idea has been sold to the community; third, the disposition of the boys to remain after graduation in the community; fourth, and perhaps least, the quality of the agricultural resources of the town. It seems to me then, if the agricultural resources of Hollis are fair and if a good per cent of Hollis boys do remain in the town after leaving school, then the idea of teaching this subject in the high school should be sold to the community and good instruction maintained. If, however, the premises are contrary to fact, the course will have a short life. The above is an unbiased statement of my opinions formed from eleven years of experience with and two decades of observation of the operation of these courses.

TESTS.

I have caused to be given in grades I and II the Pinter-Cunningham intelligence tests. A graph of the scores secured from about 200 pupils shows a close conformity with the curve of normal distribution. This is good evidence that the tests are indicative of the individual abilities and that they were skilfully given. This is the first time we have been able to secure results in grades I and II upon which we could place much reliance. The Otis tests are being given in grades III and IV with equally dependable results.

The scores are recorded on the permanent record cards for the guidance of the teachers in their work and for other school officials in matters of administration. Though the marks are guarded with professional secrecy, any parent may secure the score received by his child, and it should be very indicative to him of what he should expect from this child in the school. Individual differences in the ability of children to master school subjects always have and always will exist. It is not the function of any school to equalize the attainment of the children but rather to secure from all responses varying in extent in accordance with the individual differences in ability to learn. If the school is properly functioning, some children will receive double promotions while others are obliged to repeat, and such procedure will have to continue until some other scheme of grading has been devised.

The parent should then be concerned only as to whether the child is making progress in proportion to his ability to master school subjects, whether that child is spending four or eight years in mastering the work of the first six grades. A thorough appreciation of this fact would eliminate many complaints.

IN GENERAL.

Your schools are, I believe, functioning as well if not better than at any time during the past ten years. I believe a good school spirit exists in all the schools, and judging from frequent comment, that they enjoy a good degree of public confidence, a factor absolutely essential for good schools. The fact that you have no new or untried teacher, except the instructor in agriculture, I believe is largely responsible for this favorable condition.

REPORT OF SCHOOL NURSE.

To the Members of the School Board of Hollis:

I tender my report as School Nurse for the past year.

I am glad to report that there is a noticeable decrease in the number of defective tonsils among the school children, a large number having had treatment for them during the year. The number of defective teeth remain high and the most of these defects are among the older children and that means defective permanent teeth. The younger children show more care being taken of their teeth.

The second clinic for underweight children was held at the school November 13, 1928, under the supervision of the New Hampshire Tuberculosis Association. Dr. Kerr of Concord was the examining doctor, with Mrs. Burchell, Tuberculosis Nurse, the assisting nurse. Sixty-nine school children were examined at this time. The finding and report of this clinic you already have. I hope this clinic will be continued each year.

We still have need of paper towels for the use of the school children. The expense of these towels is small and the need is great. So many children eating their lunch at school, should have a chance to wash and wipe their hands and face before and after lunch.

I still have splendid co-operation from the teachers and parents. Every parent I have talked with seems to realize the danger of the defects of their children and are planning to have them attended to as soon as they can.

I am adding a list of defects as found by G. S. Hazzard, M. D., School Doctor, also the number of corrections secured or improvement shown.

		Number of treat- ments secured of improvement shown
